

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A power transmission system and drive train for a vehicle and more particularly an all-wheel-drive (AWD) power transmission system which directly transmits drive power to both a first and second set of drive wheels of the vehicle via a continuously variable coupling accommodating the speed difference between the first and second set of drive wheels and also relating to an alternative power take off path from a transmission PTU side shaft to power the rear drive train.